

If you are interested in Professional Membership of Steel Construction New Zealand, all you need to do is fill in this form.

As a newly incorporated society, SCNZ Inc., has five categories of membership:

Full Members include Steel Constructors (fabricators & erectors), Steel Distributors and Steel Producers.

Associate Members include Steel Detailers, Steel Erectors and Steel Deckers.

Professional Members include Engineers, Architects, Quantity Surveyors and students of those professions.

Affiliate Members include construction managers, general contractors, building compliance officials, and related industry associations and societies, both in New Zealand and overseas.

Honorary Members are specially nominated by Members from time to time.

Professional Members may be practising Engineers, Architects or Quantity Surveyors, or they may be engaged in teaching one of these professions in a recognised tertiary institution. Professional Members are able to elect their representative onto the SCNZ Executive Council. They enjoy opportunities to network and socialise at SCNZ Member Events. They also qualify for discounts on SCNZ seminars and aids such as the Online Estimating Guide, the Composite Beam Penetration Guide and the Connection Guide. SCNZ also provides a free preliminary project design service and general steel design support.

Our Rules of Incorporation (available on request), require applications for membership to be made in writing. To keep the process simple, we ask you to decide which membership category best describes you and tick as appropriate.

Fax this to (09) 263 5638 or mail it to Rebecca Symonds, SCNZ Inc., P O Box 76403, Manukau City 2241, and your application will be considered by the SCNZ Council at its next meeting.

Membership fees are set by the SCNZ Council; at this time the annual fee is $100 + GST, but the benefits of belonging to an association dedicated to the advancement of steel construction will rapidly become evident. SCNZ provides an ideal forum for Professional Members to contribute to discussion groups engaged in advancing their particular field. We look forward to hearing from you.

SCNZ Membership Affirmation

Steel Construction New Zealand Inc. is an Incorporated Society governed by its Rules which set out its objectives and means of governance.

The objectives include:

- To promote awareness of steel materials and steel construction applications, and encourage their use in New Zealand
- To foster the development and promotion of excellence in the execution and delivery of steel construction solutions
- To encourage and facilitate training and career development of people working and operating businesses in the industry.

SCNZ believes it can achieve these and its other objectives through its Members by striving to:

1. Build productive business relationships
2. Foster innovation and best practice
3. Improve day-to-day effectiveness
4. Actively communicate
5. Applaud excellence and rectify failure
6. Resolve disputes amicably
7. Think and act strategically
8. Prepare for the next generation by promoting career pathways
9. Seek the best for the industry
10. Be of benefit to the wider construction industry and the community in general.
